Assemblymembers Yamada and Ammiano Host First Ever Joint Hearing of the Aging & Long-Term Care and Public Safety Committees

From financial scams to surveillance cams: A spotlight on elder and adult abuse

SACRAMENTO, CA – Assemblymember Mariko Yamada (D – Davis), Chair of the Assembly Committee on Aging & Long-Term Care and Assemblymember Tom Ammiano (D – San Francisco), Chair of the Assembly Committee on Public Safety, will be uniting in a first of its kind joint hearing to discuss solutions to the growing number of elder and adult abuse cases in California.

“By 2020, California will be home to the largest population of older adults in the nation--6.5 million people over the age of 65. Unprecedented growth in our senior community also increases the potential for crimes against our elders,” said Assemblymember Yamada. “I am proud to be working with Assemblymember Ammiano and the public safety community to put a spotlight on protecting California’s elders and prosecuting those who harm them”.

Members of the law enforcement community and senior rights advocates will come together to discuss the mitigation of elder and dependent care abuse in California. The hearing will focus on successful and innovative approaches to dependent adult abuse prosecution.

"Elder abuse is not a subject anyone wants to talk about and the biggest challenge is underreporting because people are embarrassed and fearful. This joint hearing with Assemblymember Yamada is an opportunity to talk openly about how best to work together to ensure that our seniors get the help and assistance that they need," said Assemblymember Ammiano.
